Visit to Mobile Crime Exhibit Shows Interesting Displays

VISIT: Some new money came into town yesterday and Timmo looked it over. It was in a display in the insurance company's mobile crime exhibit shown on the smooth side of the square (with apologies to Dunk the Chunk), and I should confess it's a sight to see in print, but I believe I'd be a sucker for a counterfeit American peso.

The display would show a good bill and a counterfeit one of the same denomination; a good one and another of the same denomination; and I could keep going like that for six or eight more times but won't.

They had some doggone good imitations and upon close scrutiny the amateur spectator could see some difference in the look out of the eyes of Abraham Lincoln, George Washington and others.

There were all kinds of implements of tragedy and horror such as pistols and knives and knucklers. Of special interest was in the turret in the roof of the mobile unit. It is of armor plate and bullet-proof glass which can be elevated to a commanding position four feet above the roof by means of an engine-operated hydraulic hoist. It is five feet deep and 52 inches in diameter, large enough to accommodate two or three people equipped with gun ports and steel lid for emergency exit. This original equipment was intended for use in case of riot and other emergencies requiring protection from commonly used bullets.

Reason for the turret is that the unit formerly was the "land battle ship" of the Illinois State Police. It was operated as a mobile crime detection laboratory and disaster unit. It was decommissioned in 1949 because it proved too heavy and ponderous for practical use.

We who might gripe about the payment of the Harrisburg city wheel tax which is now due might ponder a bit on the Mt. Vernon, Ill., fees and feel a bit better.

Up in Ram territory they have the cigarette tax, just like here, and a schedule of fees for city wheel tax payments.

Just scan at this:

$5.00 bracket: Hudson Jet, Studebaker Champion, Nash Statesman and Rambler.

$7.50 bracket: Dodge 6, Plymouth, Kaiser, DeSoto 6, Chrysler Windsor, Chevrolet Conventional, Nash Ambassador, Hudson Wasp, Chevrolet Power Glider, Pontiac 6, Ford 6 and 8, Hudson Hornet, Studebaker Commander, Pontiac 8, Dodge 8, Packard all models.

$10 bracket: DeSoto 8, Mercury, Buick Special, Super, Roadmaster and Century, Oldsmobile all models, Chrysler Imperial, New Yorker, Deluxe and New Yorker, Cadillac, Lincoln.

Thing to do, folks, if you're up in Mt. Vernon, is to buy a Dort or a Maxwell.

Youths Given Tickets For Operating Vehicles Without Licenses

Police are taking steps to see that young people driving automobiles and motorcycles on the streets of Harrisburg have licenses to operate the vehicles.

Yesterday a Galatia youth was given a ticket following a crash of his motorcycle and an auto at Webster and College streets at 5 p. m. The car, driven by Homer S. Wallace, 54, of 1122 South McKinley avenue, was going west on College and the motorcycle was going south on Webster. It was driven by Charles Walker, 16.

There were no injuries. Police said two other tickets were given yesterday to youths operating vehicles without licenses. One was driving an auto, the other riding a motorcycle. They pointed out that operators of all types of motor-driven vehicles must have licenses.

Rabies Vaccinations Here Saturday

Gillette Blasts Blunders by Administration

Democratic Senator Charges Diplomatic Disaster at Geneva

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Guy M. Gillette (D-Iowa) charged the administration today with leading the nation into a "diplomatic disaster" at Geneva that is weakening the anti-Communist front "all over the globe."

"The collapse of American leadership among the free nations at Geneva is a fact no one can or will deny," he declared. "It has already cost the United States a heavy loss of influence in Europe and will surely cost us an even heavier, if not a complete loss of face in Asia."

He suggested that the administration's "grim threats of massive retaliation followed by explosion of the hydrogen bomb, the hints of direct American intervention with ground forces" were all "a gigantic bluff" that had failed.

Gillette made the statements in a blistering speech before a meeting of the Democratic National committee here. It was one of the sharpest attacks a leading Democrat has made on the administration's policy on Indochina and at the Geneva conference.

Drive Ahead for Alliance

It came only a few hours after Secretary of State John Foster Dulles gave congressional leaders a secret briefing on the problems at Geneva and the administration's plans for dealing with the grave crisis in Southeast Asia.

Informed sources revealed Dulles said the administration intends to drive ahead with its effort to create a Southeast Asia alliance despite Britain's initial turn-down. But they said he did not suggest any congressional action looking toward the use of American troops.

Britain is said to be reconsidering the alliance proposal.

These informants said none of those present—Republican or Democrat—said anything critical of the way Dulles has been quarterbacking U. S. policy.

Says GOP is Split

On the contrary, Sens. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) and Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) praised Dulles' performance and rejected the idea that the United States has suffered a defeat at Geneva.

Gillette, member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, rapped the administration for not taking the Indochina fight to the United Nations as in the case of Korea.

"We will live to regret this," he said. "We could have hauled the Regressor before the bar of world opinion but we preferred to revert to outworn methods of military intervention."

With the Republicans "split from top to bottom" on foreign policy, he urged election of a Democratic Congress in November to "allow the President to lead America in the leadership of the free world."

Roy F. Blockley Resigns as Grade School Principal at Carrier Mills

Roy F. Blockley, who is completing his third year as superintendent of the Carrier Mills grade schools, has announced his resignation, effective June 15.

Members of the Board of Education were told of Mr. Blockley's intentions Tuesday evening.

Mr. Blockley has accepted a position effective July 1 as sales representative with Lyons and Carnahan, educational publishers, and will work in the lower half of Illinois. He will probably make his home in either Mt. Vernon or Centralia.

In announcing his resignation Mr. Blockley stated he did so reluctantly, but the offer from the publishing company seemed too good to pass by. "I enjoy school work and wish to express to the members of the board of education, members of the teaching staff and the people of Carrier Mills and community my sincere appreciation for their fine cooperation during my time here," Mr. Blockley stated this morning.

A board member, in discussing the resignation, was high in his praise of the fine work accomplished in Carrier Mills grade school during the past three years.

Improvements include all phases of school work. A new kindergarten room has been built and equipped, three additional class rooms will be completed within the next few weeks, the cafeteria and kitchen have been reorganized and newly equipped and the school rooms

Truman Refuses To Comment On Eisenhower Policies

WASHINGTON (UP)—Former President Harry S. Truman refused to comment Wednesday night on the policies of President Eisenhower because "I've got too much sympathy for the man with the responsibility."

"I'm in a great position to throw bricks without hurting myself," he admitted. "But I'm not throwing any."

Mr. Truman is in Washington for a Democratic Party rally. But he turned away questions of politics at a reception at the National Democratic Women's Club.

"Don't worry," he said. "They can't ruin things in four years."

Olmstead Bank Bandits Escape Roadblocks

OLMSTED, Ill. (UP)—Three men who robbed the First State Bank of Olmsted of about $20,000 Wednesday were feared today to have slipped through roadblocks.

State police and Cairo city police set up roadblocks on main highways and the Mississippi and Ohio river bridges at Cairo after the gunmen robbed the bank. Two airplanes were used in the search for the bandits' escape car, believed to be a late model green Oldsmobile.

There was a report of a green car seen near Villa Ridge, about five miles west of here. However, Pulaski County Sheriff John Barnett said he had no idea of the whereabouts of the bank robbers. Highway and bridge blockades were withdrawn today and occasional checks made of the roads.

Authorities believed there may have been two more men waiting in the robbers' car while the three Negroes entered the bank armed with revolvers.

Cashier J. A. Rutherford, who was ordered into the bank vault with two assistant cashiers and a customer while the bandits scooped up the money, said the exact amount of money taken in the hold-up would not be known for a day or two. He said bank examiners would be called in to determine the exact loss.

FBI agents entered the case because the bank funds were insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

President Signs $965 Million Bill for Roads

Most Apportioned To States as Matching Funds

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today signed into law a bill authorizing $965 million dollars a year for highway construction in fiscal 1956 and 1957.

Of the total, 875 million dollars each year would be apportioned to the states for use as matching funds for primary, secondary and city road-building projects.

The bill provides 81 million dollars a year for building highways on federally-controlled lands such as national forests and Indian reservations and 10 million a year to two foreign projects—the Inter-American Highway and the Rama Road, a Nicaraguan defense project.

The measure also carries 175 million dollars for an interstate defense highway.

The current law provides 675 million dollars a year for highway construction.

Compromise Bill

Mr. Eisenhower backed the increase in federal spending on road building. He told a news conference Feb. 10 the government is now collecting about 910 million dollars a year from the gasoline tax but is not spending nearly that much on roads. The President indicated he would like to see almost all this money returned to motorists in the form of better roads.

The bill was a compromise between the 875 million dollars a year voted by the House and a record $1,010,000,000 approved by the Senate.

Here is the estimated annual amount of federal highway aid each Midwestern state would receive in fiscal 1956 and fiscal 1957:

Illinois $38,896,000; Indiana $20,967,000; Iowa $18,780,000; Michigan $29,936,000; Minnesota $20,635,000; Missouri $24,338,000; Nebraska $13,939,000; North Dakota $10,101,000; South Dakota $10,788,000; and Wisconsin $19,942,000.

Illinois Women's Clubs Favor Ag College at SIU

CHICAGO (UP)—The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs Wednesday went on record as favoring the establishment of a college of agriculture at Southern Illinois university.

The 1341 women attending the state convention here voted unanimously in favor of the resolution which said that "since the present educational needs of the state must be expanded and since the Southern Illinois university has instituted a vigorous agricultural program to help raise the area's economic level and bring about a corresponding decrease in the tax burden on the people," the federation go on record as favoring the establishment of a college of agriculture at Southern Illinois.

The group also recommended that the appropriation of necessary funds be made at the next session of the State Legislature for the construction of an agricultural building at the university.

French Report Reds Reject Truce to Evacuate Wounded

BULLETIN

GENEVA (UP)—The Communists have rejected a French request for a "mercy truce" at the embattled Indochinese fortress of Dien Bien Phu to permit the evacuation of wounded, French sources said tonight.

GENEVA (UP)—Sources close to French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault said today agreement may be reached with the Viet Minh Communists before nightfall for a truce to permit evacuation of 1,200 French wounded from the surrounded Indochinese fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Bidault was reported to have informed the French government by telephone that he expects an early, favorable reply from the Reds to his plea for a "mercy truce."

In the broader negotiations for an Indochina peace settlement, a blunt rejection of any plan that would partition Viet Nam, largest of the three associated states of Indochina, was issued today by the Vietnamese delegation.

Partition has been suggested as one means of ending the war between the Communists and loyal French Union forces. President Eisenhower has indicated the United States would look favorably on dividing Indochina only as a last resort.

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault called a meeting with the Viet Nam delegation in an effort to line up a solid front for the long-awaited peace negotiations.

Indochina truce talks, expected to begin Friday or Saturday, also were discussed at a meeting

Two Army doctors reported at an Army-Navy-Air Force medical conference that all workers recovered completely within five days from mild exposure to "G-gas."

Lethal doses of the gas, used as a deadly war weapon, completely wreck the human nervous system. The doctors emphasized that no one at the arsenal—one of three places in this country where G-gas is manufactured by the Army Chemical Corps—received more than a mild dose. Extreme precautions are taken in the secret laboratory where the gas is compounded from cheap, common chemicals.

The Army has stated flatly there is no chance that G-gas will leak into the atmosphere and threaten residents of nearby Denver.

Exposed arsenal workers reported a variety of effects, including tightness in the chest, blurred vision, runny noses, nausea, headaches, difficulty in breathing normally, cramps and twitchings.

The body was moved to the Gibbons funeral home. No arrangement had been made this morning.

Mr. Buchanan is survived by his wife, Myrtle; five sons, Emmett and Vernon of Harrisburg, Leo and Leslie Earl of Oliver, Ind., and Marion Dale of Evansville; two daughters, Mrs. Flo Mannas and Fern Buchanan of Evansville; and one brother, Luther, of Eddyville; and one sister, Mrs. John Gee of Carrier Mills.

UN Best Way to Solve Issues, Mrs.
Roosevelt Says

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said Wednesday night the United Nations might be a better agency for handling issues being discussed at the Geneva conference.

Mrs. Roosevelt, widow of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt and a former U. N. delegate, told more than 2,000 persons at Southern Illinois university that the U. N. is "the only machinery we have to solve international problems."

In dealing with the U. N. Mrs. Roosevelt said, "we must be particularly alive to the fact that you strengthen an organization by using it."

Hoover Warns Of Red Attack on All Religions

WASHINGTON (UP)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Wednesday night a bitter Communist attack now is being waged, "often in subtle forms," against all religions and denominations.

Calling on all religious groups to work closely together, Hoover said "nothing" would please the Communists more than to see dissension, quarrels and misunderstandings.

"Non-Communists are probably not aware of how closely the Communists follow their activities, seeking something to exploit for their selfish advantage," Hoover said.

He and Asst. Defense Secretary John A. Hannah addressed a meeting of the U. S. Military Chaplains' Assn. where Hoover received the association's 1954 award.

Should Be Kept Secret, Att'y General Rules

Committee Votes to Send Transcripts To Justice Dep't

WASHINGTON (UP)—Att'y. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. said today a letter introduced into the Army-McCarthy hearings by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy constituted an "unauthorized use" of secret FBI information.

In a letter to the Senate subcommittee investigating the Army-McCarthy dispute, Brownell ruled that neither the 24 page "letter" produced by McCarthy nor the 15-page FBI memorandum from which it was drawn should be made public.

McCarthy testified Wednesday that the "letter" was brought to him last spring by a young officer in the Army intelligence division.

The letter purported to be from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Brownell said Hoover had "examined" the document presented by McCarthy and "advised me he never wrote any such letter."

Identical Phraseology

"However," Brownell said, "this document does contain phraseology which is identical in words and paragraphs" with those in a 15-page confidential FBI memorandum sent to the Army Jan. 26, 1951.

Brownell said the purported FBI letter which McCarthy introduced in the hearings Tuesday contained "evaluations" of FBI information on certain persons that "were not made by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover or anyone acting on his behalf."

He said the original Hoover memorandum of that date contained "unevaluated" information.

Brownell expressed his views in a letter in response to one from Chairman Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) asking whether the Justice Department would approve publication of the hotly-disputed "FBI letter" that McCarthy injected into the hearings Tuesday.

Stevens Corrects Testimony

In one of the stormiest sessions of the 11-day-old hearings there were these other developments:

1. Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens corrected testimony of May 3 that he did not remember conferring with anybody at the Pentagon after a Feb. 24 meeting with Republican members of the Senate investigating subcommittee—the meeting which produced the ill-fated "memorandum of understanding" between him and McCarthy. He said today he reported to 21 persons at the Pentagon after that meeting.

2. McCarthy charged that Stevens' Monday testimony that there

957,042 GOP,
738,449 Demo
Primary Votes

SPRINGFIELD — The State
Electoral Board reported today that 957,042 Republicans and 738,449
Democrats cast ballots in the April 13 Illinois primary election.

The board, composed of five state officers headed by Gov. William G. Stratton, met to make the official canvass of the returns.

The GOP vote showed an increase of 79,818 from the last non-presidential year, 1950. The Democratic vote was down 174,114 from the same year.

In both primaries, there were contests for GOP statewide nominations but none on the Democratic ticket.

Stratton seemed surprised and elated when the figures were shown to him at the start of the meeting.

"Are you sure these figures are right?" he said, referring to the GOP vote. "That's 100,000 more than we figured. . . I feel better than ever."

Official Canvass
In 1950, there were 877,224 GOP votes and 912,563 Democratic ballots. In the primary election two years ago, there were 1,397,356 Republican and 894,991 Democratic votes.

The official canvass gave Joseph T. Meek, victorious candidate for the Republican U. S. Senate nomination, 283,843 votes. Edward A.
Hayes was second with 181,490 and Austin L. Wyman third with 103,- 202.

U. S. Sen. Paul H. Douglas, unopposed for Democratic nomination, gathered a total of 587,048 votes. The Republican senate candidates combined got 841,766.

For the Republican state treasurer nomination, Warren E. Wright won with 329,565 votes to 256,308 for Conrad F. Becker and 190,917 for Robert J. Branson.

Democrat David F. Mallett drew 531,647 votes for state treasurer, for which he had no primary opposition. Republican Vernon L.
Nickell got 702,257 votes and Democrat Mark A. Peterman 523,876 for their respective nominations for state superintendent of public instruction. Neither was opposed.

The electoral board also completed the canvass of district races.
Here were the final official results in some of the closest contests:

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Disunity At Home Has Cost Us Defeat At Geneva; Dulles Commits Tragic Error With Intervention Statement; Molotov Is High Man On Geneva Totem Pole.

WASHINGTON. — Unless the Russians pull some unforeseen bon-er at Geneva, that conference seems slated to be the worst diplomatic defeat for the United States in 20 years.

What Geneva has done is show up the fact that the U. S. A. no longer holds the world's initiative, the balance of power, the trump cards, in the cold war. In Geneva, other diplomats did not come knocking at Dulles' door to find out what the United States wanted.
They knocked at Molotov's instead.

For the first time, at Geneva, the United States went back to the days of Hoover and Roosevelt when we could not call the tunes at international conferences. Time after time in those days, we inspired important diplomatic gatherings, only to have them end in failure. This was not because either a Democratic or a Republican administration was in power, or because we didn't try hard. It was because Nazi-Fascist leadership was too strong and because we were too divided at home. So we coasted . . . downhill . . . into war.

Today strong Communist leadership has replaced Nazi-Fascist leadership — at a time when the United States has become woefully divided at home. A nation divided itself cannot lead, and our European allies know it. That's why we have lost world initiative.

Herbert Hoover lost leadership abroad because of the isolationist split in his own Republican party.
Roosevelt couldn't gain leadership — until after Pearl Harbor — because of increasing isolation, especially from some of the same crowd that has come back with such vigor to support McCarthy.

Today the Kremlin obviously reads the newspapers. So do our allies. They know that, regardless of what Mr. Dulles may say at Geneva or Paris or London, he can't carry out what he says without certain Republican senators; without the American people — now confused by McCarthy; and without the morale-shot American army.

In other words, John Foster Dulles went to Geneva with almost no trump cards in his hand. And when he got there he proceeded to throw away the one card that Molotov thought was a trump.

WILL DULLES RESIGN?

All this was why Dulles left Geneva amid reports that he would resign.

While the reports were denied,
it is no secret that the harassed and beleaguered secretary of state has felt terribly depressed.

Once, when heckled before the Senate Foreign Relations committee by the leader of his own party, knowland of California, Dulles seemed almost on the verge of tears.

"I can't seem to please you gentlemen," he said. "It looks as if there's just no way we can conduct foreign affairs to your liking."

And, as he departed for Geneva, Dulles told advisers that the Republican party's Senate leader, Mr. Knowland, seemed to be the biggest obstacle to Dulles' policies. The Senate leader should lead in supporting Republican policies, not try to block it, he complained.

DULLES' BONER

Because of these worries, plus the fact that he was extremely tired and had not enjoyed four weeks of golf, Dulles pulled a surprising boner at Geneva. He held a background press meeting in his Geneva hotel room the night before the conference opened at which he flatly reversed Vice President Nixon and his own statements about U. S. intervention in Indochina. Categorically he stated that we had no intention of doing anything in Indo-China. Three weeks before, Nixon had told newspaper editors we might even send troops. But Dulles said we would do no such thing at all.

Though Dulles was not quoted directly, this made headlines around the world.

But more important, Molotov knew within 30 minutes who the author of the nonintervention statement was.

Immediately, Molotov called Communist satellite diplomats together, told them to adopt a hard-fast policy of unconditional surrender in Indo-China. Previously,

U. S. and Indian observers had picked up what seemed to be reliable reports that Molotov had planned a conciliatory policy. He had been afraid the United States really meant business and might enter Indo-China. Now he wasn't afraid.
So Communist policy went into reverse overnight.

EISENHOWER VACILLATION

Dulles of course committed a tragic error when he held that press conference — even though he told the truth. He could have avoided meeting the press. Or he could have said nothing. He should have kept Molotov guessing.

But the basic fault was not actually Dulles. Momentarily unwise and indiscreet, the real fault goes back to the fact that Dulles was hamstrung by elements of his own political party; also by his own allies; and by administration failure to do anything about Indochina until it was almost too late.

Eisenhower inherited a difficult situation in Indo-China not of his making, but which did not become serious until a truce was signed in Korea. Then, as Moscow shifted Russian arms southward, Indochina became explosive.

Meanwhile, the administration procrastinated. And it was not until two months ago that the National Security Council belatedly realized that something must be done about Indo-China or else all southeast Asia would go Communist. This was a warning given by various newsmen for more than a year.

And having made this discovery,
Vice President Nixon, Secretary
Dulles and the President proceeded to "educate" the American people and our allies regarding the use of American and Allied troops in the jungles of Indo-China.

The only trouble was that neither the American public nor our Allies can be educated that rapidly — especially a few months after great political capital was made over peace in Korea.

When people are repeatedly told that we will have a much-desired peace in Korea and that we are now enjoying peace in Korea, then they come to like the idea of peace.
And they don't shift gears and exult over war in another distant part of Asia with any enthusiasm — at least not quickly.

This was the essential problem

V. F. W. Members Attend Meeting in West Frankfort

The tenth district of the V. F. W. posts and auxiliaries met at West Frankfort Sunday afternoon, May 2.

The main business of the afternoon was the redistricting the territory of the tenth district into three districts, 13, 14 and 15th. The 15th district which included Harrisburg contains about 21 posts, all within a radius of around 50 miles.

The organization meeting of the 15th district will be held in Anna Wednesday, May 12, it was announced.

Those attending from Harrisburg were Commander Hollie Stout, Harry Dutton, Roscoe Cook, John Beal, auxiliary president, Mrs. Florence Hancock, Mrs. Hazel Jones, Mrs. Bernice Wolfe, Mrs. Anona Dalton, Mrs. Wilma Ashe and Mrs. Jeanne Stuby.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wasson of Carrier Mills returned home over the week-end from Rochester, Minn., where Mrs. Wasson underwent examination and treatment at St. Mary's hospital and Mr. Wasson underwent a checkup at the Mayo clinic. Mrs. Wasson was found to be suffering from an ulcer. On Monday Mrs. Waldo Killman of Marion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wasson, underwent an appendectomy at Ferrell hospital in Eldorado.

Do CRAMPS give you that monthly look?

Why let tell-tale misery, "nerves" show in your eyes? Does your mirror show an older-looking, worn-out, nervous face during your "bad days"? Why let men see that you are suffering from monthly cramps? Try a little Cardui each day as thousands of women do. Let it help build strength and resistance so you have less and less misery each month. Some go through periods without feeling any discomforts at all. Also helps relax jittery nerves—sleep better. Look, feel, act younger, more normal all month. Ask for Cardui. (Say: "card-goo-eye").

Miss Olympia Crespi, Robert L. Fife Wed at Herrin in Double-Ring Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Fife

Miss Olympia Crespi, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Crespi, 320 North 19th street, Herrin, recently became the bride of Robert L. Fife, son of Mrs. Hazel Anderson, 514 South Main, Harrisburg.

The double ring ceremony was performed in the rectory of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel church in Herrin by the Rt. Rev. Robert De Gasperi. The rectory fireplace, covered with fern and greenery, was centered with a large bouquet of gladioli. Baskets of gladioli were placed at each side of the fireplace.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of chantilly lace over satin. The gown was fashioned with a scalloped neckline, the traditional long pointed sleeves and buttoned up the back with tiny satin buttons. The full skirt, worn over hoops, featured an apron of lace over nylon tulle. Her lace cap, adorned with clusters of orange blossoms at each side, was attached to a finger-tip veil.

She carried a crystal rosary and a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Mrs. Elmer Salmo, Herrin, cousin of the bride, was the matron of honor and Miss Geraldine Crespi, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Mrs. Salmo and Miss Crespi wore identical floor length frocks of blue net over taffeta and featured apron effect skirts. The strapless bodice was covered with a lace jacket. They wore picture hats of blue net and carried colonial bouquets of Talisman carnations.

Tom Fife, Harrisburg, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. Amiel Crespi, Herrin, brother of the bride, served as usher.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Crespi wore a gray dress with blue accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a blue suit with blue accessories. Both wore pink carnation corsages.

A reception was given in the Christopher Columbus hall, and following this the couple left for a wedding trip through the southern states. They are now at home in Marion.

The bride is a graduate of the Herrin Township high school and Mr. Fife was graduated from the Harrisburg Township high school.

Hickenlooper Says Possible H-Bomb Can Be Harnessed for Peaceful Use

PHILADELPHIA — Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper said today that it may be possible to control the tremendous thermo-nuclear reaction behind an H-bomb to produce useful power.

Furthermore, the Iowa Republican said, it may be possible through a controlled thermo-nuclear reaction to have "direct production" of electrical power, rather than having to produce steam to turn generators.

Hickenlooper, vice chairman of the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee, raised the possibility of using the H-bomb reaction for peaceful purposes in a few guarded passages in a speech prepared for delivery before the World Affairs Council.

Theoretically, atomic scientists have claimed it would be possible to produce power from a thermo-nuclear — or fusion — reaction. It has been generally assumed, however, that the thermo-nuclear reaction could only be used for destructive purposes, as indicated in the recent gigantic H-bomb explosions.

American scientists, in seeking useful atomic energy, have been concentrating on harnessing the atomic or fission reaction. Hickenlooper's comments were a tip-off that the scientists have now turned also to the fusion reaction.

It is not "an impractical dream," he said, to look forward to "a time when a comparatively few pounds of properly enriched uranium can produce power for great cities and eventually for most of the uses which an industrial economy would demand."

But while pushing peaceful use of atomic energy, Hickenlooper warned that it would be national suicide for the United States to abandon military use of atomic energy as long as Russia keeps expanding its war effort.

Transcripts to Justice Dept. At the suggestion of Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), the subcommittee voted to refer all past and future daily transcripts of the hearing to the Justice Department for "whatever attention" is needed. Each side has accused the other of falsehoods.

5. McCarthy charged Stevens and Army counsel John H. Adams with deliberately trying to prolong the hearings to forestall further investigation of alleged Communist infiltration of the military. Stevens, who was in the witness chair for the 11th day, said heatedly this is "positively not" true.

6. Army special counsel Joseph N. Welch said only McCarthy's "filibuster by cross-examination" was responsible for prolonging the current hearings.

7. McCarthy denounced Sens. Stuart Symington (Mo.) and Henry M. Jackson (Wash.), Democratic members of the subcommittee. He said they try to "obstruct" his attempts to "dig Communists out of government."

8. Stevens received some aid from FBI chief Hoover in his defense against McCarthy's accusations of failing to meet the Communist menace within the armed forces. Stevens testified he talked with Hoover by telephone this morning and the FBI director "spoke in highest terms" of cooperation between the FBI and Army intelligence on this point.

Brownell's letter, which the subcommittee requested late Wednesday, was read aloud at the hearings by Robert A. Collier, a special assistant subcommittee counsel.

The carbon of the "letter" produced by McCarthy was signed in typewriting "J. Edgar Hoover" and addressed to "Maj. Gen. Bolling."

Maj. Gen. Alexander R. Bolling was then chief of Army intelligence. Brownell said the 15-page original was sent by Hoover to Bolling in memo form and that it was "confidential." He said a copy went to Maj. Gen. Joseph F. Carroll, then director of Air Force special investigations.

The memo dealt with security risks at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. Menard, 27, who surrendered without a struggle Wednesday at a French Quarter hideout, claimed it would

FDR-Churchill Secret Pact
Raises Question of Others

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Disclosure of the now-voided 1943 agreement between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sir Winston Churchill, restricting the use of the atomic bomb, has raised the question of how many such "secret" international agreements the United States may be bound by.

According to U. S. law, it is impossible for the American government to have any secret international commitments. An act of Congress passed originally in 1936 and amended in 1938 and 1950 requires that all U. S. treaties and international agreements shall be published annually.

Individual treaties and agreements are printed in pamphlet form. They are distributed officially to congressmen and appropriate government agencies. And they are sold by the Government Printing Office to anyone interested at from five cents to a dollar apiece, depending on size. To this extent, American diplomacy is a completely open book, with no secrets involved.

THE PRESENT series of "U. S. Treaties and Other International Agreements" begun in 1946 combined two previous series. The old series of treaties numbered 994 documents. A newer series of executive agreements, begun in the 1930's, ran to a total of 506.

When the two were combined, the numbering began with 1501. Today the series is in the 2800's. This means that some 1300 of these treaties and agreements have been made in the eight postwar years.

Treaties, of course, are formal agreements ratified by the U. S. Senate. The agreements are made by the President with the heads of other states under his constitutional powers.

Agreements may also be made by the President's designated representatives, like commanding generals of armies in the field, cabinet officers or ambassadors.

A study of the agreements made in 1953 disclosed that approximately 85 per cent of them had been made in accord with legislation passed by Congress. Another 10 per cent were made to carry out the administrative details of treaties ratified by the Senate.

THESE AGREEMENTS cover such things as air routes and landing rights for commercial aircraft, military advisory missions, economic assistance, educational exchange, technical cooperation projects, or exemptions from income tax on shipping agreements.

The five per cent of the agreements not covered by legal or treaty authorizations include such things as exchanges of diplomatic notes between governments, communications issued at the end of international conferences, or agreements between the President of the United States and the heads of foreign governments.

What brings all these exchanges within the range of the public treaty series is that they set foreign policy or apply to the conduct of a war.

At the time, 1943, that President Roosevelt made his deal with Churchill at Quebec on use of the atomic bomb, it was two years before the first bomb was dropped. So this pact had to be kept secret. The same restriction applied to those parts of the Yalta agreement of 1945, on the conduct of the closing phases of World War II.

These are the only once-secret agreements that have ever been disclosed. If there are others, they're still secret.

RESEARCH INDICATES that the United States has been a party to only one secret treaty in its entire history. This was "An Act Separate and Secret" from a "Treaty of Alliance, Amity and Commerce" negotiated with France and approved by the Continental Congress of 1778.

Secrecy was of course the accepted practice in international relations up through World War I. Many of the German Kaiser's alliances of that era were based on secret treaties.

To end secret diplomacy, the first of President Woodrow Wilson's 14 points for ending World War I called for "Open covenants, openly arrived at" and no more private international understandings.

In spite of that ideal for a perfect world, the realities of modern diplomacy demand the continuance of many private international understandings. Thus the text of the

Strawberries to Move to Market

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Strawberries from southernmost Illinois growers will start moving to market in increased volume by Saturday, the Illinois Fruit Growers Council said today.

Although many berry patches were injured by last summer's drought, the growers are expecting a good crop of high quality berries. The first of the crop will be picked in and around Villa Ridge this week and harvesting will move northward through areas near Anna-Cobden, Belleville-Centralia and Quincy-Paris until mid-June.

The council also reported final plans are being made for the 1954 Illinois Summer Orchard Day to be held at the Hartline farm south of here June 2. The program will center on demonstration and exhibition of the latest orchard equipment and supplies.

Tests at SIU to Provide
High School Diplomas
For Persons Over 21

Persons over 21 years of age who have not been graduated from high school may receive high school diplomas through successful participation in the General Educational Development testing provided without charge at Southern Illinois university.

Examinations will be given in the SIU office of student affairs on Harwood avenue from 8 a. m. Friday through 12 noon Saturday. About 10 hours of testing is required.

To participate a person must present a statement from his high school principal that a high school diploma will be granted upon successful completion of the examination. A candidate qualifies for the diploma by passing General Educational Development test requirements specified by his high school. Additional information may be received through high school principals, or the SIU office of student affairs.

broader North Atlantic Treaty can be made public. But the international defense plans and agreements to carry out the NATO concept must always remain secret. To publicize them would wreck the defense of the entire free world.

A portable feed bunk, mounted on wheels, is handy for hauling silage or grain to cattle on pasture. If you have the facilities, you can pull the bunk under feed or silage chutes and load direct, suggests Capper's Farmer. It is particularly useful in seasons like last summer when pasture is short.

VanderPluym Named Coach At McLeansboro

Accepts Head Football Coaching Post Effective This Fall

John VanderPluym, an assistant coach at the Harrisburg Township high school since classes resumed following the Christmas holidays, has accepted the head football coaching job at McLeansboro high school, effective this fall.

Acceptance came last night. VanderPluym, who had been recommended for the post by Principal Carl Nation of the McLeansboro school, met with the board of education last evening and was offered the position. He accepted immediately.

McLeansboro high school is resuming football in September after a lapse of 25 years. For the first two years, there will be only freshman-sophomore football there, with the team playing freshman-sophomore elevens from other schools. Then the school will enter varsity competition.

VanderPluym, 23, is a native of Harrisburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Connie VanderPluym. He is married to the former Miss Joan Keith and they have one daughter, Jo Carroll, two and a half years old.

He was graduated in 1949 from HTHS, where he won the following varsity letters: Three in football, four in basketball, three in baseball and three in track. He was a halfback on the fine 1948 South Seven championship grid team. He also was a member of the National Honor Society because of his scholastic achievements.

VanderPluym was graduated from Southern Illinois university in 1953. There he won three varsity football awards and was voted the most valuable man to his team his senior year.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree in Education at SIU and after joining the HTHS staff in January taught driver's education, coached freshman basketball and has been assisting Coach Lawrence Caluffetti with the baseball team.

Former Gov. John Stelle donated a football field to the school last November. Football was dropped in 1929 because of lack of interest.

Shawneetown Beats Equality Nine, 9-2

Shawneetown won a 9-2 decision over Equality high yesterday afternoon in a game played on the Indian diamond. Jack Nolen and Garrison Newsom hurled five hit balls for the victors. Eddie Kaufmann pitched the entire game for the losers.

It was the third meeting of the two schools this spring, each having won one previous contest.

Eldorado to Enter 16-Man Squad in District Track Meet

Eldorado high school will be represented in the district track and field meet this Friday by a 16-man squad, Coach Al Adams said today.

Eldorado's hopes received a jolt this week when Gene Barrett, dash man and member of the 880-yard varsity relay, took the mumps. He has been out of school since Monday.

The track meet, with Carbondale

Community high school as host, will be held at SIU Carbondale Friday. Preliminaries will be held in the afternoon and the finals at night.

Bull Dogs Beat Marion, 9-2

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs ended their regular baseball season at Marion yesterday afternoon, coming home with a 9 to 2 victory.

This afternoon they are engaged in subdistrict tournament competition at Taylor Field.

Sophomore David Anglin went all the way on the mound for Harrisburg, allowing four hits while Harrisburg was collecting seven. Ronnie Bean caught for the locals. The Bull Dogs made two errors.

M. Anderson and Strange hurled for Marion, giving up seven hits, but seven Marion errors added to the defeat of the Williamson county boys. J. Anderson was behind the plate.

Bean was the hitting hero for Harrisburg, going three of the seven bingles. Tom Golden, Anglin, Ken Dunn and Russ McDowell got the other four.

Belcher, Gill, Groves and Dwyer got the blows off Anglin's hurling. At 3:30 p. m. today at Taylor Field the Bull Dogs were meeting Equality in the subdistrict elimination with Don Beal probably Coach Lawrence Caluffetti's choice to hurl.

At the same time on the town park diamond, Shawneetown and Carrier Mills will be tangling. This latter game, originally scheduled for Friday, was changed because of the district track meet at Carbondale tomorrow.

Stuart Schmidt of West Frankfort will umpire the Harrisburg-Equality game. Henry Winkelman of Harrisburg the game between Carrier Mills and Shawneetown. Both officials are registered by the Illinois High School competition, a requirement by the IHSA.

SIU Receives $8,000 Grant for Cancer Research

Another $8,000 grant for cancer research has been awarded by the American Cancer Society to Dr. Carl C. Lindgren, head of the biological research laboratory at Southern Illinois university, and one of his associates.

Using yeasts as organisms for study, Dr. Lindgren will continue cancer research with Dr. Maurice Ogur.

"This study," the American Cancer Society said, "should lead to a better understanding of how the amino acids in proteins are synthesized by the body and by what means this synthesis can be controlled."

This is the third consecutive year that work in the SIU laboratory has received financial assistance from the Illinois division of the Cancer Society. The grant is part of a total of $180,307 in allocations made to six Illinois colleges and universities for cancer research this year. SIU and the University of Illinois were the only downstate schools so honored.

Roberts Hurls 10-3 Victory Over Cards; Walks Hurt Turley In Loss to Yankees

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

Oh, those bases on balls! That's a manager's lament that has caused more ulcers than wild throws, fumbles, and missed signals combined.

Frankie Frisch made the phrase almost a household word among fans when he quit as a big league manager and became a play-by-play broadcaster. Even in his neutral seat by the microphone, those walks hurt him deeply.

And look at the damage they caused Wednesday.

At Washington, Wednesday night, young Bob Keegan, who had won three in a row for the White Sox, got into a bases-loaded jam in the bottom of the eighth and walked Roy Sievers to force home the only run in a 1-0 Senator victory.

Bob Turley, the Baltimore bullet, kept the Yankees in their protected hit slump when he yielded only two safe blows, but he lost 4-2 when he loaded the bases with walks in the fifth. Winner Ed Lopat squeeze-bunted home one run, then Turley walked another man and Joe Collins smacked a three-run triple.

Roberts Beats Cardinals

Bob Rush lost his chance for victory in a hurry at Chicago when the Dodgers loaded the bases in the first inning on singles by Pee Wee Reese and Junior Gilliam and walks to Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo which forced home a run. That was all Russ Meyer needed for he pitched a six-hit, 7-0 victory, over his old mates.

At St. Louis, Robin Roberts, coming back after being kayoed the previous night, hurled a seven-hit, 10-3 victory for the Phillies' sixth in a row. Although the Cardinals were well out of it in the ninth, Mel Wright compounded the felony by forcing home three batters on walks.

In other games, Cincinnati defeated the Giants, 7-1, handing Sal Maglie his first defeat, while Milwaukee rookie Gene Conley pitched a six-hit, 4-1 decision over Pittsburgh, as Ed Mathews hit his first homer since April 25. Cleveland topped the Athletics 7-2 and the Tigers and Red Sox still were held idle by the weather in Boston.

Porterfield Wins

Jim Fridley had put Turley in front with a Baltimore homer, but the hurler dug his own grave with the walks. It was his second two-hit defeat of the campaign. It marked the first time this season that the slump-struck Yankees had beaten a right hander.

Bob Porterfield, who pitched nine shutouts last season to lead the majors, chalked up his first of the 1954 campaign against Keegan.

Michigan Player Leads Big 10 In All-Around Hitting

CHICAGO — Don Eaddy, Michigan's basketball player who turned third baseman for the baseball season, stacked up today as the all-around hitting leader of the Big Ten.

Eaddy, though his batting average of .500 was second to the .533 posted by Purdue's Joe Sesson, led the league in hits with nine, in stolen bases with five and in runs batted in with eight.

In addition he was tied for the lead in total bases with 17, in home runs with two and in doubles with two. Deadlocked with him with a pair of home runs was Don Waldron of Iowa, who also has 17 total bases, and Ed Lindsey of Iowa.

In pitching the top four teams of the loop had the six leaders. Michigan's pacemakers had the standard hurler so far, Jack Ritter, who has not allowed a run and who allowed only six hits in gaining two wins. Jack Corbett of the Wolverines also has posted two victories without defeat.

Others in the double win category were Paul Giel and Ron Craven, Minnesota. Ron Erickson, Michigan State, and Paul Ebert, Ohio State.

Michigan State, second to Michigan in the standings with three wins, one loss and one tie compared to a five-and-one mark for the Wolverines, was the team batting leader with a .315 mark. In fielding Minnesota was tops with a .972 average.

Illinois Edges Arkansas, 8-7

CHAMPAIGN — Illinois rallied for three runs in the eighth inning Wednesday to eke out an 8-7 win over Arkansas on the Illini home field.

Arkansas outlived the Big Ten team nine to six as first baseman Walt Matthews smashed a triple and a single to lead the attack.

Tom Cusack went the distance for Arkansas while three Illinois pitchers were used. Marv Graves, who shut the Razorbacks out in the last three innings, got the win.

Steelworkers Meet to List Wage Demands

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Top policy makers of the CIO United Steelworkers gathered today to spell out the 1,200,000-member union's 1954 demands on the recession-plagued steel industry.

The proposals were expected to include a substantial wage increase, bigger pensions, more and cheaper insurance, and at least a step in the direction of a guaranteed annual wage.

As a result, a wide gulf will separate the bargainers when negotiations open. First talks are scheduled for May 18 with U. S. Steel Corp., the nation's number one producer and traditional bellwether of the industry.

Management representatives have taken the position that no cost-raising concessions should be granted now because of sagging sales and production. The nation's mills are operating at slightly less than 68 per cent of capacity this week.

Contracts Expire June 30

USW President David J. McDonald contended in a nationwide television appearance Wednesday night that higher wages are necessary to increase purchasing power and combat the downward economic trend.

As the result of seven post-war wage increases, steel workers now earn an average of $2.18 an hour, according to industry statistics. McDonald is not expected to disclose the amount of increase sought this year until negotiations are well along.

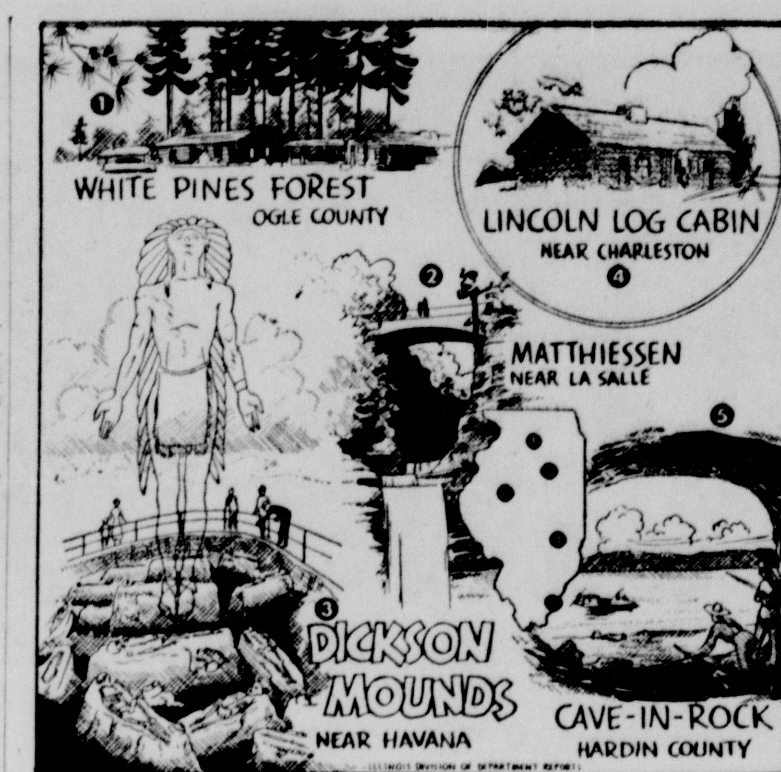

Most of the union's contracts with big basic companies expire June 30, opening the way for a strike of 600,000 workers. Another 600,000, employed in finishing and fabricating mills, also have contracts expiring the same date, or within a short period.

Union Program

The present contract, which was signed in 1952 after a bitter 52-day strike over the union shop issue, was re-opened for wages only last year when an 8 1/2 cent hourly boost was granted. This year, all contract provisions are subject to renegotiation.

In his presentation of the union's program to combat recession, McDonald called for:

1. Boosting of social security benefits to unemployed and pensioners by at least three billion dollars.
2. Increasing the personal federal income tax exemption to $800.
3. Expanding the public works programs by at least five billion dollars.
4. Increasing home construction and slum clearance efforts through federal action by five billion dollars.

SEE ILLINOIS NOW—Visit your scenic and historic Illinois State Parks and Memorials. No. 1, White Pines Forest, in Ogle County, is the largest southernmost White Pine forest in the nation. No. 2, various plant and animal life native to Illinois is preserved at Matthiessen, near LaSalle. No. 3, Dickson Mounds, between Lewistown and Havana, features an excavated Indian burial ground. No. 4, Lincoln Log Cabin, near Charleston, is the last home of Abraham Lincoln's father. No. 5, Cave-in-Rock, in Hardin county on the Ohio river, was once the hideout of river pirates.

Visits to State Parks Bring Rich Rewards in Illinois' Scenic Beauty

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Springtime travel in Illinois brings rich rewards in scenic beauty from one end of the Prairie State to the other.

In an effort to encourage residents to see and enjoy the beauties of their home state four State Departments are cooperating in a program endorsed by Governor William G. Stratton to publicize all areas of Illinois.

No matter where you live in Illinois there are many interesting places to visit at this or any time of the year. The spring months are considered the ideal time for travel in the state since short trips of one or two days are the usual order at this season.

Participating in the "See Illinois Now" program are the State Departments of Public Works and Buildings, Public Safety, the Division of Reports in the Department of Finance, and Division of Parks and Memorials of the Department of Conservation.

Suggested trips this weekend include visits to Cave in Rock State Park on the Ohio river; Dickson Mounds near Lewistown; Lincoln Log Cabin near Charleston; White Pines State Park north of Dixon; and Matthiessen State Park near LaSalle. These places were selected with a view to giving residents of various portions of the state a weekend travel suggestion.

A description of the various places follows:

CAVE IN ROCK State Park: This is a famous landmark on the Ohio river in Hardin county, about eight miles east of Elizabethtown and 20 miles south of Shawneetown. The cave once sheltered river pirates and dangerous criminals in the early days when the Ohio river was the chief means of transportation to the middlewest and the south.

The town of Cave in Rock and the state park of the same name are located at the southern terminus of State Route 1. The park consists of about 60 acres and stretches about one mile along the Ohio river. It is a favorite spot for picnickers and provides countless eye-catching views of the Ohio river valley. Ferry boat service is available to cross the river.

DICKSON MOUNDS State Park: Located half way between Lewistown and Havana on a gravel road off State Route 78, Dickson Mounds State Park features a museum cemetery which is reputed to be the largest and most unusual excavation of its character to be found anywhere in the world.

The mound is one of about 10,000 mounds and village sites that are scattered over the entire state of Illinois. It was scientifically excavated by Dr. Don F. Dickson in 1927 and in a space 30 by 60 feet more than 230 skeletons are exposed to view. The skeletons are those of pre-White Americans probably of an Asiatic origin similar to that of the historic Indians.

LINCOLN LOG CABIN State Park: Near Charleston in Coles county on the Lincoln National Memorial Highway which stretches from Vincennes (Indiana) to Beardstown is the Lincoln Log Cabin State Park. The park comprises 86 acres of the last Lincoln farm in Illinois and serves as a memorial to Thomas Lincoln, father of Abraham Lincoln. Nearby is Shiloh Cemetery where the graves of Thomas Lincoln and Sarah Lincoln are located. The latter was Abraham Lincoln's stepmother.

The Lincoln National Memorial Highway established by a commission which studied the much disputed path the Lincoln family followed in moving from Indiana to Illinois in 1920. The route from the Indiana state line to Decatur follows the family migration. It extends west from Decatur to Springfield and then northwest to New Salem, Park and Petersburg and then to Beardstown.

WHITE PINES State Park: In Ogle county on a hard surfaced road midway between the towns of Polo and Oregon is a 385 acre tract of land in which the state has preserved one large remaining example of an evergreen forest of White Pines. It is reputed to be the southernmost forest in the nation of these towering White Pines which reach as high as 100 feet into the sky.

The park provides good roads and trails and playgrounds for grown-ups as well as youngsters. It also has a number of accommodations for overnight visitors. The forest is located along the east bank of Pine Creek which terminates in Rock River.

MATTHIESSEN State Park: Two miles southwest of Starved Rock State Park in LaSalle county is located one of the newer of Illinois' vast system of state parks. The area in which the park is located once served as the home of the powerful Illini confederation of Indians composed of the Tamaras, Kaskaskias, Moeinkewas, Michigamies, Cahokias and Peorias.

The park has much of geological and historic interest and affords a means of preserving considerable of the plant life that once was common to Illinois. The state hopes to preserve for all time at Matthiessen State Park samples of plant and animal life native to Illinois.

Motorists Advised Against Picking Up Youthful Hitchhikers

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Illinois motorists were advised today against picking up youthful hitchhikers. State Police Chief Phil M. Brown warned that drivers who pick up boys under 17 and girls under 18 are liable to prosecution for contributing to the dependency and delinquency of minors. Brown said another law bans hitchhiking.

Sugar has 1794 calories a pound, only half as many as a pound of butter.

Rockford Man President-Elect Of Illinois Bar

FAST ST. LOUIS (AP)—Timothy I. McKnight, president of the Illinois Bar Assn., said today that better understanding has been fostered the past year between lawyers and laymen.

The Chicago attorney termed it the "principal development" during his tenure. Karl G. Williams, Rockford lawyer, was named president-elect at the opening session of the association's annual convention here.

More than 1,000 lawyers will attend the meeting, which continues throughout Friday.

Madison County attorneys will be hosts at the annual dinner tonight when Robert G. Simmons, chief justice of the Nebraska Supreme Court, will make the principal address. He recently returned from a State Department mission to India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

McKnight, in reviewing accomplishments during the past fiscal year, pointed out that the 77-year-old bar association now has its own headquarters building at Springfield.

Williams, a native of Egan, Ill., attended Dartmouth and obtained his law degree at Harvard. He has been a practicing attorney in Rockford since 1927 and is a former assistant attorney general of Illinois.

Thomas S. Edmonds, Chicago, and James G. Thomas, Champaign, will become vice presidents of the association.

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—South Korean President Syngman Rhee shattered the rules of protocol today to welcome back Gen. James A. Van Fleet, the man he hopes will give him a bigger army.

Van Fleet, former commander of the 8th Army, arrived at a Seoul airbase and received one of the most elaborate welcomes extended any American official since the armistice was signed.

Rhee normally waits in his mansion for visitors to call on him but today the 79-year-old leader drove through the warm spring afternoon to shake the hand of the man he calls "Korea's best friend."

Metropolitan Opera Star Reminisces About Childhood in Southern Illinois

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Glamorous Metropolitan Opera star Jean Madeira reminisced today about her childhood experiences in southern Illinois, including excursions into coal mines where her father worked.

"I remember going down in the Buckner mine with my daddy and helping him to be the night watchman at Zeigler when the mine was on strike," said Miss Madeira, returning to this area as "Honored Soloist" in the Southern Illinois Music Festival at Southern Illinois university Saturday night.

The tall, black-haired beauty who has become one of the leading Met contraltos and a favorite "Carmen" also recalled singing "Mammy" before an audience at Christopher when she was four.

Since that time, Miss Madeira has sung with the St. Louis Municipal Opera and most of the grand opera companies of North and South America. Following her appearance here she will join the Met tour for a swing through the Northern U. S. and Canada, journey to Cuba and Puerto Rico to sing "Carmen," make a two-month junket in Europe, and return to New York to sing at the Met opening in November.

First Trained, at Piano

When she was five, Miss Madeira was "Queen of the Shadow Dancers" at the first Chautauqua in Christopher, but her first real musical training was at the piano. She had to travel 38 miles by train from Christopher to DuQuoin to study under Mrs. H. O. Pope who was "Honored Musician" at the Southern Illinois Music Festival two years ago.

"I practiced at the piano so that Mrs. Pope wouldn't be cross with me, but more often I practiced with the help of mother's switch from the oak tree in the front yard," Miss Madeira said.

Her mother, Mrs. Noma Brown, still teaches piano in St. Louis. Her father has been dead about 27 years.

Though she was born in Central ia, Miss Madeira spent most of her childhood around Christopher and Benton, where her grandfather farmed. Later, she moved to East St. Louis.

Jean Madeira

"Unfortunately, I haven't been able to return to this area much since we moved away," she said, "but I'd like to go back to Christopher and see our little house on Market Street and visit the people I went to Franklin school with."

Other Memories

She listed the names of a dozen grammar school classmates, including Bette Lee Hawkins, Howard Schwinn, Edwin Cockrum, Lois and Jack Trout, Frances Lee and Mary Lou Hitt. She said an aunt, Zella E. Flitt of Vandalia and a cousin, Mrs. Paul Sutherland, Centralia, are among her relatives still living in Southern Illinois.

Some of the other memories of Southern Illinois the Met star cherishes are: "being baptized in the First Baptist church in Christopher by Dr. John Farrell; being so proud of mother when she sang solos in that church; going to carnivals on the lot near where we lived; getting a candy treat from Mr. Heinzman at the grocery store, and eating the good Hungarian dishes Victoria Hoe, a neighbor, fixed."

Miss Madeira, who has sung roles in such operas as "Trovatore" and "La Forza del Destino" and who was acclaimed last year for singing two roles in "The Rake's Progress," when another singer became ill, credited "my darling, wonderful mother" and St. Louis piano teacher Leo C. Miller as being most significant in shaping her musical career. In private life, she is the wife of Francis Madeira, conductor of the Rhode Island Philharmonic Orchestra.

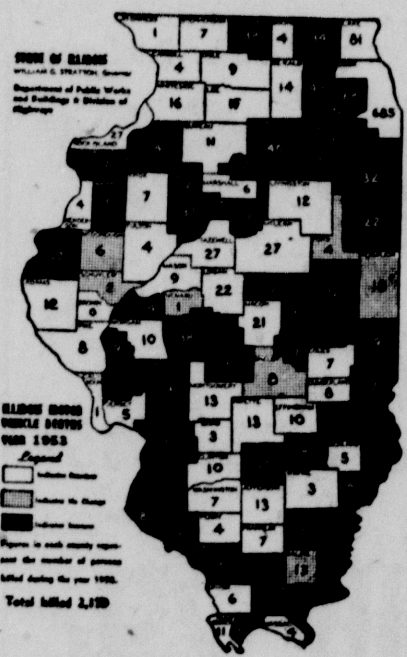

Had Lunch With Gloria Swanson

At the Music Festival here, she will sing the Habanera from "Carmen," "My Hero" from "Chocolate Soldier," and an aria from Saint-Saen's "Samson and Delilah."

Long before she had given up the piano in favor of vocal instruction at the Juillard School of Music in New York, Miss Madeira said, she had another ambition which was never realized. She decided to be a movie star after seeing Gloria Swanson at the Globe Theater in Christopher.

"I had lunch with her at the '21' Club last month," the singer said. "She was greatly amused."

Traffic Accident Fatalities in State Highest Since 1941

Last year the traffic accident fatality total of 2,179 in Illinois was 44 more than the total of 2,135 in 1952. While the Illinois total was the highest since 1941, the fatality increase failed to keep pace with increases in the number of vehicles registered and the amount of motor travel. The fatality increase from 1952 to 1953 was 2 per cent compared with a 4 per cent increase in vehicle registrations and a 5 per cent increase in the amount of motor vehicle travel. The 1953 travel death rate was 7.6 or 4 per cent less than the 7.6 deaths per 100 million miles of travel in 1952.

The accompanying map shows the distribution of motor vehicle accident fatalities by counties in 1953 in accordance with accident reports received by the Illinois Division of Highways. The counties in which fatalities were greater in 1953 than in 1952 are shown in solid black. Where fatalities were the same for the two years the county is shown dotted and if there were fewer fatalities in 1953 the county is shown in white. The figure in each county represents the number of people killed during 1953 in motor vehicle accidents.

In a majority of counties there were 10 or fewer fatalities with 5 or less in 27 counties and from 6 to 10 in 31 counties. The fatality total was from 11 to 20 in 24 counties.

Flowers and Pomeranians Raised at Cummins Rural Home on Blacktop Road

By Alta Porter

On the blacktop road to Carrier Mills from Route 13, which is a part of Harrisburg RFD 2, reside Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cummins and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Cummins. Raising dogs and flowers has become an occupation at their very attractive rural residence, and it is hard to tell which attracts the most admiration. The dogs are Pomeranians and are just about the cutest canines alive. The flowers are of great variety, color and continuing bloom.

Mr. and Mrs. Cummins formerly lived further west, about eight miles. Their house was moved to its present location in 1948 to make way for Sahara mine No. 6, and all of the beauty that has been developed there has resulted from hard work on the part of Mr. and Mrs. Cummins in the past five years. Mrs. Cummins does most of the planting and tending, since Mr. Cummins is employed at the Sahara washer.

Their son, Henry C. Cummins, who served as a first lieutenant in the Army after World War 2 for two years, and was with the Army of Occupation in Japan, was recalled to service in 1951 and took part in the Korean "police action."

It's Cheaper to Make Sure Window is Open

FRESNO, Calif. — Police officers recently investigated a suspected burglary at the home of Mrs. Ina Mae Northington when they noticed a broken window screen and glass.

However, it turned out that Mrs. Northington's chow dog was the intruder. The dog usually enters the house by jumping through an open window. On this occasion, the dog failed to notice that the window was closed.

Hand fans made of palm leaves were used by the early Assyrians and Egyptians.

C. C. Porter Finds
'Cave Man' at Home Near Liberty

The original cave man of this area was discovered a few days ago by C. C. Porter of this city, rural circulation manager for the St. Louis Post Dispatch in Saline, Gallatin, Williamson and Franklin counties. He spied the old man of the mountains peeping out of the shrubbery at him as he approached the George Mitchell farm house on Rt. 2, near Liberty.

No one answered when Mr. Porter knocked at the front door, and being certain that he had seen a face peering at him from a basement window, he walked around to the side door. Mr. Porter, being a magician, knows something about illusions, but was amazed to discover a stone head of a man standing in the shrubbery near Mrs. Mitchell's kitchen door.

On a subsequent call he learned that her uncle, the late Steve Garrison, who will be remembered by Register readers as a collector of Indian relics, had carved the head out of sandstone, and Mrs. Mitchell gave it a realistic touch by painting the lips red.

Mr. Garrison is said to have made several stone heads, using only a hammer and a coal chisel.

The Mitchells "loaned" the image to Mr. Porter, saying they might call for it in five or ten years, and it is now at the Porter residence, 629 South Granger street.

Mrs. Porter is wondering if C. C. will turn up with a "cave woman," when he get down around Garrison Ridge.
